GRISWOLD READY TO FACE CHARGES OF HOTEL COMPANY

Waives Examination Before Acting Judge Lange This Morning.— Trial Is Set for August Seventh.

Merle B. Griswold, alias Carl B. Judson, the seventeen year old Detroit youth facing charges of attempting to obtain money under false pretenses, waived examination in municipal court this morning, and because trial procedure does not come within the jurisdiction of acting municipal judges, Justice of the Peace Charles E. Lange, who is substituting during the absence of Judge H. L. Maxwell, adjourned trial until August seventh.

Louis Brown, clerk of the Grand Hotel, where it is alleged Griswold tendered a worthless seventy-five dollar check on the Dime Savings Bank at Detroit in payment of his board bill and sought to collect the difference, and the only witness expected to be called by District Attorney Stanley M. Dunwiddie, is in New York City. Because of this and also because of the impossibility of Mr. Lange to preside in the trial, Griswold's attorney, Gardner Kallveag, agreed to the eliminating of the examination and the setting of a date for his appearance to face the charge.

The night of the day he was first arraigned in Municipal court Griswold penned a letter to Hugh Chalmers, Detroit, president of the Chalmers Motor Car company, asking for financial aid, presumably to fight the case. The reply came from Chalmers' secretary that Mr. Chalmers was out of the city. Griswold is unable to secure bondsmen for bail and is confined in the county jail.

GIFT IS RECEIVED BY MASONIC LODGE

Horicon Mason Donates Large Sum of Money for the Upkeep of Home for Brothers.

Alexander E. Matheson, prominent member of the Masonic lodge of this city was present yesterday at a meeting of the trustees and members of the special committee of the grand lodge of the state. The meeting was held at the Dousman estate which has been recently donated to the grand lodge of Wisconsin. Present and Accepted Masters, by Willard A. Van Brunt of Horicon. The gift consists of $200.00 in first mortgage farm security bonds, an endowment for the maintenance of the Dousman home for Masons.

The transaction took place on Wednesday in the office of W. W. Perry, grand secretary of the Wisconsin Grand Lodge. Van Brunt's donation is contingent on the condition that the grand lodge make per capita dues sufficient to cover the income from the $200,000 to maintain the home. The home consists of three hundred and fifteen acres and includes one hundred head of pure bred Holstein cattle valued at $35,000, and considerable personal property and farm implements, bringing the total value of the farm home up to about $150,000.

The motive of Mr. Van Brunt's gift is to insure a home for old people and their families at a time when circumstances over which they have no control deprive them of the home comforts to which the humane family is entitled.

The following men made the trip yesterday and visited the Dousman home: Judge Alden Jenks, Dodgeville; Judge Hiram W. Sawyer, Hartford; C. C. Rogers, Milwaukee; Alexander E. Matheson, Janesville; Robert E. Lang, Racine; Herbert N. Ladlin, Milwaukee; David Harlowe, Milwaukee; Luther Curry, Milwaukee; William Currie, Milwaukee; W. D. Gray, Milwaukee; W. W. Perry, Milwaukee.

FINDS TONY MARTIN NOT WANTED LOCALLY

Benton, Wis., Mine Worker Is "Tony" But Not the One Who Slew Lawrence Girl, Chief Finds.

Chief Champion returned to Janesville last evening after a fruitless trip to Benton, Wis., to identify an Italian mine laborer whose name is Tony Martin and who answered nearly all measurements of the Italian who murdered Mary Lawrence in the Webster school grounds last fall. The Tony Martin at Benton, however, was not the one the police are still looking for.

Several days ago a Janesville lady gave the tip to the police that this man was at Benton. He had been injured in a zinc mine accident. The lady recalls in an account of his injury that a Galena, Ill., paper, and noting that the man went under the same name as the slayer of the Lawrence girl, informed Chief Champion. He wrote to Galena, Ill., and learned that the man was still at Benton, where he was recovering from his injuries.

The chief left Tuesday night. Accompanied by a Benton officer they started for the Italian's residence. A quarter of a block away Champion said he would swear that the man was the one wanted here, but when he got within twenty feet of him he saw that it was not Tony Martin he was after. In build, height and general appearance the two were the same, but body identification marks were entirely different.

Thus far no real clue to the slayer of the little Lawrence girl has been secured. Mystery enveloped him since the night he committed the dastardly crime. "Sooner or later," say the officers, "we are going to get track of him." They have not given up hope of bringing the Italian to justice.

ENJOYS GUARD DUTY AT NOGALES, ARIZ.

Kenneth Brown, Son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Brown, Formerly of This City, Writes of Army Life.

Kenneth Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Brown, formerly of Janesville, now at Twin Falls, Idaho, is serving with Company D, Second Idaho infantry, writes from Nogales, Arizona, to his aunt, Mrs. Peter Brown, of Janesville, who is the wife of an army life. He has no word of complaint for rations or for alleged unsanitary conditions, such as has been circulated concerning conditions at army camps in Texas. Among other things Brown writes:

"Nogales is a pretty fine little town on the American side, but I don't know what it is like on the Mexican side, because we can't go across the boundary line which cuts the town in two. The whole town is run by Mexicans, Spaniards and Spanish-Americans. Very seldom do you see a white business man here. "Our camp is situated on a high hill about a mile north of Nogales, where we can see across the line, and at night you can see the Mexican army campfires. Of course we have to drill a little, but are off duty every second and third day at three o'clock. We are not doing regular border patrol duty."

"There are regiments of the militia here from Idaho, California, Utah, Connecticut and all over the United States. We have a band concert and singing entertainments in camp every night and church on Sunday. We take physical exercises for half an hour every morning and afternoon and have shower baths and a Y. M. C. A. at army grounds. I am acting as corporal now, and expect to get my appointment soon."

AUTO LICENSE BOOK IS RECEIVED HERE

Volumes Several Months Late In Arriving From State Printery.— Still Far Behind Now.

Volumes containing the names of automobile owners having secured Wisconsin license tags up to number $9,999 have been received in the city. The book is for the use of the department of police, and arrived this morning.

The state printshop is far behind in the listing and printing of automobile and motorcycle license books. As a result the police department has been handicapped considerably when officers, not knowing the occupants of cars and drivers of motorcycles would catch their numbers but have no way to determine the owner of the car as a clue to further action in cases of law violation. This trouble extended back over a list of 30,000 license numbers, volumes from $1.00 forward to where the new book starts in having been at the station for some time, but on the whole each arriving several months late.

NEW COMPANY NOW SEEKING QUARTERS

Dr. F. B. Farnsworth Has Been Appointed One of the Examining Surgeons of the Recruits For National Guards.

Suitable quarters for the permanent home of the new military company now officially organized at Janesville are being sought by the special committee appointed by the company at the time of their muster on Tuesday night. Owners of several large call examine interested in the committee in their special location and a decision must be reached within a few days so that drills can commence, it is probable that some decision will be reached.

While the commissions for Captain Hans Jaekle, First Lieutenant Roy Worthington, have not yet arrived, these officers are now recognized as the officers of the company by the Adjutant General's department and will conduct the business of the company. Dr. F. B. Farnsworth, 203 Jackson block, has now been appointed one of the examining surgeons for the Wisconsin National Guard by Major W. C. Seaman, chief surgeon of the guard, in special order eighty-two, by official order of Orlando Holway, chief of staff. He will start his physical examinations of the new members of the local company shortly. The proper blanks have been received, notice being given of the time and place of these examinations.

At the present time there are seventy call examine and a half dozen others who signed the preliminary rolls but were unable to be present the night of the muster. Captain Jaekle or either of the lieutenants will accept applications for enlistments and the proper blanks will be received within a day or two for their enrollment.

Prospects that the company will find suitable quarters and start drills at once are bright. For the present the drills will consist of the setting up exercises and the company will be divided into squads, drills and under the supervision of temporary sergeants and corporals who will be named by the captain until the equipment arrives.

NEW INTERURBAN FILES ROUTE MAP

Suburban Line Between Here and Madison Records Blueprint of Proposed Right of Way.

A blueprint map showing the proposed route of the Capital Interurban company right of way between Janesville and Madison has been filed at the register of deeds. Together with this print is a record showing the topography of the route.

Leaving Janesville the line will cross over at Indian Ford then into Edgerton and to Chicago, from Edgerton it will run west to Stoughton making a big curve between the two points. From Stoughton the line will run north to Lake Monona, then north to Lake Kegonsa in a direct northerly route and then across the ward to Macfarland where it swings around to the east to touch Lake Waubesa at Edwards Park. From there the line runs to Lake Monona skirting the edge of the city until it terminates in the city of Madison, entering from the northeastern side.

FATE OF CROP WILL DEPEND UPON RAINS

Plants That Obtained Good Rooting Early in Excellent Condition.— Later Planting Needs Rain Badly.

Within the next few days the fate of the tobacco crop in the general section will be practically decided. At the present time the prospects are for an excellent yield but rain, a good deal of rain, down pour is needed badly in many localities. The crops continued to have had sufficient moisture for the general part of the crop shriveling up somewhat and rain is essential to bring it out. The general planting of the plants set out in general during the wet weather, gained sufficient roots to withstand the dry period but those set early in July are in poor condition. The Edgerton Tobacco Reporter says of the situation:

"The growing tobacco crop has now reached a critical stage where the weather conditions of the next few days will determine its quality to a great extent. CHICAGO MARKETS

Chicago, July 28.—Dwindling hog receipts and better shipping orders helped yesterday's market. The average price moved up 5c, standing $2.90 above a year ago.

Arrivals of swine this week will total about 110,000 at Chicago, being the second smallest in nine months. On the other hand, however, combined receipts at eleven markets for 1916 to date turned the 18,000,000 yesterday, being a record.

Another 10@25c advance in lamb prices yesterday carried best westerns to $10.90, being 75c above a week ago, and $2 above a year ago.

Receipts for today are estimated at 1,500 cattle, 38,000 hogs and 10,000 sheep, against 1,375 cattle, 21,125 hogs and 14,024 sheep a year ago.

Average price of hogs at Chicago was $9.12, against $9.67 Wednesday, $9.70 a week ago, $6.65 a year ago and $8.50 two years ago.

NEW GOOD ROADS LAW HAS NO PORK BARREL

Authors of Latest Highway Law
Claim No Useless Expenditures
Called for Here.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Washington, July 28.—No "pork barrel scandals" will result from the new Shackleford good roads law just signed by President Wilson, the authors declare.

Instead they expect the system established, that of contributing federal aid to the states for the construction of good roads, will be so free from chicanery and so helpful in building up a system of internal improvements, that congress will be willing after the $100,000,000 is spent to vote new appropriations.

Good roads advocates say the new law is epoch-making. It is intended, together with the rural credit system, to improve the conditions of country life and to draw the flow of population from the country to the city.

Good roads, with the automobile, will destroy the lonely existence of the farmer. Opportunities of association with neighbors, it is believed, will make the country boy more willing to stay on the farm.

If the automobile owners think the Shackleford law is intended solely for their benefit, they are badly fooled. So says Representative Saunders of Virginia, one of the authors.

There will be a howl going up to the department of agriculture, says Saunders, if the automobile owners are not given the same consideration as the farmer.

The appropriations under the provision of the law, will be paid to the state in five installments—$5,000,000 the first year, $10,000,000 the second year, $15,000,000 the third year, $20,000,000 the fourth year, and $25,000,000 the fifth year.

The money will be divided among the states, one-third in the ratio of area, one-third on the basis of population and one-third on the basis of the number of miles of rural delivery roads.

Payment for the construction of roads will be on a fifty-fifty basis. If the state agrees to provide half the cost, the federal government will furnish the rest. Road projects must be approved by the department of agriculture and the law is entirely silent on the nature of the improvement, whether it is a brick macadam, or common dirt roads. These details are left entirely to the state.

"If this law fails to work, responsibility will rest on the department of agriculture," says Saunders. "Congress leaves hands off, and there will be no opportunity to say that congress has played politics."

FEDERAL ROAD AID FOR WISCONSIN IS NEAR TWO MILLION

State's Allotment for Five Year
Period Amounts to $1,980,000
—State Must Raise
Equal Sum.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Wis., July 28.—Dispatches from Washington state that Wisconsin's allotment of Federal aid for good roads, under the Shackleford Federal good roads bill, will amount to $1,980,000 for the year 1916. This bill provides for Federal aid to each of the states for road building. The total sum allotted to Wisconsin is $1,980,000, running over a five-year period and increasing each year. Three per cent is deducted from this amount for the expenses of administration on the part of the Department of Agriculture.

With the announcement of the first year's allotment of $1,980,000, the Good Roads Association of Wisconsin, which is following the matter closely, gives the following amounts which the state will receive each year:

1916-17 $1,980,000
1917-18 2,067,000
1918-19 2,154,000
1919-20 2,241,000
1920-21 2,328,000

Inasmuch as it will not be possible to utilize the $1,980,000 which is available for Wisconsin for the year 1916, this amount, under the terms of the Federal Aid Act, can be added to the amount allotted for the year 1917, making Federal aid of $3,968,000, available for use in Wisconsin next year.

Inasmuch as the state must meet the amount supplied by the Federal Government, this means that the legislature next winter must get busy and appropriate $3,968,000 specifically for road work under the Federal aid law. It will be necessary to do this quickly and early in the session in order to give the State Highway commission time to draw up plans and specifications and to lay out the work to be done.

Under the terms of the bill, the State Highway commission is empowered to select the roads upon which the money will be spent, determine the type of the road and all the details. The bill provides for the use of the money on post roads, which includes a large part of the mileage in this state. It further provides that the improvements must be permanent in character, and that the roads must thereafter be maintained by the state for a period of not less than ten years, and it limits the amount to be spent on any road under the Federal Aid Act to $10,000 per mile.

THE GUARDS.

Now that the organization of a company of the Wisconsin national guard has been perfected in this city the next thing is to see they are firmly established in an armory. While this is directly a company affair still it is also a civic matter as well and one in which the citizens should be vitally interested. Where units of the national guard are established in other cities excellent armories are to be found, the majority of them the gift of the city itself or built by popular subscription.

It is not expected that Janesville will immediately take steps to own an armory building of its own, but still it should be the pride of citizens that the new company is suitably quartered in a permanent home. The state pays a goodly proportion of this armory rental, in fact pays it all if it does not exceed a stated sum, pays for its care, but the maintenance is paid for by the company itself.

It has been suggested that the auditorium building for this purpose, with necessary remodeling suggested by the war department for the proper storage and care of government property that will be assigned to the company. It is most centrally located, it has two exits that could be utilized and if taken for an armory, would still be available for the purposes that it was originally designed for, a large hall for public exhibits, skating, basketball, and meetings.

The newly organized company has, of course, taken no definite steps in the direction of an armory, but it is up to the citizens to aid them in every way possible to be located as quickly as possible so that actual drills can start and the organization become a "de facto" military unit and not merely a paper one.

Both the members of the new company and the citizens who have been interested in seeing a military company established here should give thanks to the untiring labors of Mayor James A. Patters and City Clerk Hammarlund in bringing the affair to a successful issue. Both gentlemen devoted considerable time and personal effort to the matter and its success is due to their individual efforts. Of course there are others who also did their share, but the bulk of the work fell upon the shoulders of these two gentlemen and they deserve the credit due them.

LITERARY FLAVOR.

The purchase by Frank Munsey of the New York Sun, and the consolidation of the same with the New York Press, has set a host of newspaper writers and readers to talking about the distinctive characteristics for which the old Sun was so famous. Other newspapers have had an equally strong individuality, but it would be hard to find anywhere in the world a journal that attracted to its staff such a brilliant staff of writers, with such a gift for picturesque description.

Much as the literary flavor of the Sun under Mr. Dana has been admired, there seems no great demand now for newspaper work of that type. Plenty of men of literary gifts are employed in newspaper work. But the hustle and drive of modern newspaper production tends to repress literary feeling and blunt the edge of this form of genius.

Producing a popular newspaper has become a matter of systematic, energetic, and untiring collection of news, rather than that of a facile, graceful or sparkling style of putting it into words. The modern reporter is sent out to cover the widest ground, to tramp the greatest number of miles, to interview the greatest number of people.

Whereas once he was given a little more leeway in the production of his copy, and could revise and brighten his thought, now his news may be delivered off hand over the telephone. It has as much literary grace and feeling as any off-hand conversation that you hear in a railroad train or street car, and not a bit more. The public demands to know what has happened and it does not insist that the story be told with any regard to rhetorical force or even grammatical construction.

To many discriminating readers this change has been unwelcome. Yet modern methods of news collecting are so systematic and thorough and untiring that it produces journals that are very faithful and inclusive records of human activity. They may lack sparkle, yet are a wonderful transcript of human life.

The fact that thousands of people are annually drowned as the result of a reckless swimming alarms no one, but the killing of one boy by a shark is enough to make the whole Atlantic coast stop bathing.

LUXURIOUS TRAVEL.

Among the other ways in which the American people spend money freely nowadays is the common use of the "parlor" or "chair" cars in traveling. Where formerly a train might have demand only for one such car, now it is not an uncommon sight on largely traveled routes for whole trains to be made up of these cars.

There is a freedom of motion on the parlor car that saves many weary bones. You don't have to sit cooped up in a narrow space unable to move without elbowing your seat mate. The smaller number of people in the car makes the ventilation far better. The reason why one is tired after a railroad trip is more often lack of good air than any other cause.

Seldom a great many of the American people are necessarily economizers. The downy plush and yielding cushions of the chair cars are a luxury for them. They see more of all kinds of life in the democratic day coach. Also no dusky interloper comes around with his brush board, asking tips for services one would rather perform for himself.

NEWSPAPERS AND CRIME.

The remark is frequently made that the printing of so much criminal news by newspapers tends to promote crime. It is argued that by whole suggestion people are taught to become burglars and train robbers.

Some men unconsciously sympathize with crime. They admire its smartness, and when they write up a bold act they make the perpetrators of it appear in the light of heroes.

Other writers see that the worst harm is not done by the victims of crimes, but by the men who commit these acts, who are thereby led from the paths of industry and rectitude. In their accounts of crime such writers represent the meanness of the act rather than its audacity or skill. Crime stories written in that vein don't do harm.

Newspapers should be willing to cooperate with the police in suppressing information the publication of which would be harmful, but on the whole a newspaper story of crime is commonly a sleuth bound on the track of the fleeing perpetrator.

Having been able to keep up regular installment payments on their mortgaged automobile, some people feel they should be commended on their display of thrift.

Sharks are biting swimmers on the Atlantic coast, but as the summer grows spends most of her time on the sand displaying her bathing suit, she is quite safe.

It is predicted that congress may remain in session for a good many weeks yet. It is perhaps natural that many of the congressmen should hesitate about going home.

The ease with which the Mexicans seem to get ammunition is a suggestion that all those potatoes and pork being taken across the border should be more closely inspected.

In case of war, many people's idea of patriotism would be to use their influence to encourage some one else to enlist.

Our troops may not have done a great deal in Mexico, but at least they have kept Mr. Wilson busy for several months.

Congress is now beginning to speed up, but the public is assured that at least the titles of the bills will be read.

It is believed the United States will insist that Mexicans killing Americans be fined at least $5,000 and costs.

There is a unanimous approval of the income tax among the people who don't pay any of it.

On the Spur of the Moment

ROY K. MOULTON

The Bull Moose.

All dressed up and no place to go. Without a leader and without the law. Left by the Moses of years gone by. Left on the sand bar, high and dry. Issues were stoned upon all sides. Elephants and donkeys, drat their hides!

Both came up and stripped the Moose Of all of his issues lying loose. The way is long and the grazing punk.

There's nothing left but a store of spunk. He's ready still for a rousing fight. But nothing to fight for is in sight. When the end has come and the world has ended has starved.

This epitaph we will see carved Upon the stone where the daisies grow: "All dressed up and no place to go."

An Emperor on $2 a Day. Emperor Franz Joseph of Austria-Hungary lives on $2 a day, but the answer is easy. He is an emperor. If an emperor wants to wear a celluloid collar and wash it himself no one dares to criticize.

Wear a $7 suit until the fringe hangs about its edges and no one dares object. An emperor can live on oatmeal, smoke "Pride of the Gravel" and use bluing in order to save ink if he wants to under the divine right of kings.

A multitude of peculiarities. A king can put on a 25-cent necktie with a rubber loop and hook over the collar and be called a monarch.

Instead of being called cheap he is lauded as the originator of a new style.

Impossible Things. To make a pianola play as well at home as it did in the store. To get in the last word with a life insurance agent.

To keep a woman from writing on both sides of the paper. To get the buttons in a white vest without breaking one of the commandments.

To look dressed up when you have a ready-tied four-in-hand on. To understand the telephone conversation of a stenographer who is chewing gum.

To refrain from turning to the sporting page of a newspaper first. To get a theater seat that suits, even if it is the one you asked for.

At Last a Groom is Mentioned. A recent wedding wrote up says: "The groom, Harry Leroy Taber, was dressed in navy broadcloth, while the bride, Miss Anna Lee Steele, wore white pongee silk elaborately trimmed in lace and embroidery carried a large bouquet. The groom is a handsome young man of fine phy-siognie and exemplary habits. He is a locomotive fireman and has his flat already furnished."

Cheer Up, Brother.

Every now and then Tom Bodine of the Paris (Mo.) Mercury forgets his apostrophe of "Sunshine Street" and lapses into janiest pessimism. In this manner does he spill the bluing: "June still comes rose in hand, the sweetheart of the world, but is met at the threshold of Arcady, hustled into a gasoline wagon and forced to go joy riding. She has laid aside her witching draperies and donned a dirty linen cravenette and a dinky cap. Tinscent upon the night is now the stink of Standard Oil and our ambrosia bear. Clearly the old order changeth." Cheer up, Tom. Things may take a turn.

The Daily Novelette

MICKLE'S MANOEUVRE.

This fellow was
A wise old gink;
He did things you
Would never think.
—Dink.

"Mr. Mickles, your wife is outside. sir," said the office boy.
"Ow," said Mickles, expressively, and rose from his desk and went out into the ante-room, carefully shutting his office door behind him.
"Henry, I've come to see your new stenographer," said his wife.

"But, my dear, she will offend your esthetic sense!" protested Mickles. "She's a sight. I told you she was a sight."

"I insist on seeing," replied Mrs. M. "Very well, but wait till I finish dictating a letter. It's very important."

"It's to Higgin and Diggins cancelling an order for a dozen lead pencils and must get off."

"Just as you say, my dear. But your hat isn't on straight. There's a glass over there in the corner."

"Oh, dear! I'll just fix it. I'll be there in a minute."

And she went over to the glass to straighten her hat, and in the half hour it took her to do it, Mickles had his beautiful new stenographer out the window on an improvised rope ladder, and hauled up a frightfully homely one for whom he had telephoned to the employment bureau.

WATER SUPPLY RUNS

SHORT AT MADISON

With One Artesian Well Out of Commission Hot Weather Demand Taxes Available Supply.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Wis., July 28.—The continued hot weather has made the water situation in this city acute. Notices have been given asking that all automatic lawn sprinkling be discontinued. One of the main artesian wells is out of commission owing to a break in the machinery. The call for water the last few days is 1,500,000 gallons above the average. More than 3,800,000 gallons of water is now being used daily.

3,800 ACRES OF FREE

MADE INTO PAPER DAILY

MADISON EXHIBIT SHOWS.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Wis., July 28.—That the trees from 3,800 acres of land are daily converted into paper and that more than 1,800,000 tons of newspaper are produced in the United States each year are interesting facts brought out in an exhibit of the paper industry which has just been installed in the Forest Products laboratory, Madison.

Specimen copies of the St. Louis Republic and the New York Herald printed on paper made from woods other than spruce, which were tested by the Forest service and found suitable for news stock, are also shown in the exhibit to illustrate the possibility of utilizing such species as Jack pine, hemlock, tamarack, and balsam for the manufacture of groundwood pulp.

Illustrations of Egyptian hieroglyphics cut in stone and inscriptions in clay, such as the Chaldean account of the Deluge, have been added to the exhibit to show the development of writing from the earliest times to the present of the means of making writing widely available. A sheet of ancient papyrus, an illuminated parchment scroll and a picture writing on bark, as practiced by the American Indians, also show contrast between olden methods and those employed since the invention of the printing press and the early use of hand-made paper. As a climax the modern printing press which is capable of Laurence Ginnell Charged With Violating Defense of Roal Act—Vital Detention Camp.

London, July 28.—Laurence Ginnell, author, humanitarian and prominent Irish member of the British parliament, was placed on trial here today by his government, charged with violating the defense of the realm act.

Penalties for conviction of the violation of this act range from a ten shilling fine to imprisonment.

Ginnell was arrested by order of General Lloyd, information came to the officer that Ginnell had visited a detention camp at Knutsford, near Manchester, under an assumed name and there spent some time talking in a suspicious manner with Irish rebel prisoners.

Ginnell has long been known for his sympathy with the Irish cause.

Islands Worth Little to Denmark Are of Vast Importance to U. S.

Denmark owns three little islands in the West Indies. St. Thomas has about thirty-three square miles of hilly surface and about 13,000 inhabitants, mostly colored descendants of former slaves. St. Croix or Santa Cruz, as it is often called, is more than twice as large, with about twenty-four square miles and about 20,000 inhabitants, also the descendants of former slaves of American origin. The third island, St. John, is insignificant in population and smaller than either of the others. The three taken together have an area of about 138 square miles.

It is evident that such possessions can have little value to Denmark. For a country with no other territory in the same part of the world and with no great traffic to watch over and guard in the West Indies, they are nearly worthless. There is scant room for white colonists and the Danes sensibly refuse to go there to earn a living. English is the language spoken on these little patches of ground, under the Danish white cross flag.

For the United States the islands which Denmark is said to have sold to sell if this country will pay $25,000,000 for them, have a very different importance. St. Thomas is not fifty miles from Porto Rico. The Danish islands lie in the pathway of commerce between Europe and the Panama canal. Have harbors which might be of much value to the United States navy in case of war. But what is of vastly greater importance is the fact that if they were bought by this country there would be one less source of possible international complications in the vicinity of the Panama canal. One small European state would practically disappear from the map of nations of the old world still retaining possession of this hemisphere.

Greenland does not matter. There would be an end of the talk of possible designs upon the Danish islands in the West Indies by some great European power.

"Such a change would make for the security and serenity of life in America," is the argument of those favoring annexation. "It would help to insure the peace of the new world. For that reason alone, if Denmark will sell, the little islands in the West Indies for $25,000,000, the investment will be well worth making. It will be another step toward the complete Americanizing of America."

BANKERS CONSIDER

SCHOOL FOR CLERKS

State Association Will Consider Matter at Convention to Be Held Next Month in Madison.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Wis., July 28.—At the meeting of the Wisconsin Bankers' association, which is to be held here August 8-9, plans will be discussed for a proposed school for the training of bank clerks. Those interested in the movement do not know how the plan can be best worked out, but it is probable that the university may be asked to establish a short course in the subject. The plan of the association for the employees will also be discussed. It is expected that upwards of 500 will be present to attend the meetings.

The complete program of speakers has not yet been announced. W. T. Abbott of the Central Trust company, Chicago, will speak on the evolution in banking methods. Nathan Adams, vice president of the American Exchange bank, Dallas, Texas, will speak on the recent ruling of the federal board on remittances at par for bond checks. M. G. Jeffris, Janesville, will deliver an address on the Torrens land system, and Frank A. Cannon, secretary of the Wisconsin Good Roads association, will explain the work of that organization.

The business sessions of the association will be held in the assembly chamber at the capitol. Preceding the meeting on the evening of August 7, a get-together affair will be held at the Park Hotel under the supervision of Fred J. Carr of Hudson. On the afternoon of August 8 the bankers will visit the ivy-covered pavilion at the university and view the pure bred stock.

NEW TRAFFIC COURT ACCEPTS NO EXCUSES

First Report Given Out Today Shows Everybody Pays Fine for Speeding in His Auto.

New York, July 28.—The first official report of New York's new traffic court, available today, shows that no excuses are accepted every autoist or other person arrested for violation of traffic regulations being fined.

During the first thirteen days the court was in session 123 persons were sent to jail because they didn't pay their fines. Most of them still are there and others are following them every day.

Before the traffic court started, about one-fifth of all traffic violation fines were suspended. Now they must all be paid. The first thirteen days of the court acted the city $11,303 in fines.

There were 300 cases of speed limit violations in the thirteen days; twenty chauffeurs were convicted of driving cars without numbers, three persons for driving cars with unlicensed and six for failing to stop after an accident, which is a felony.

Two drivers' licenses were revoked and one driver's number suspended. Court officials say conditions are much better in the streets since the new court has taken such vigorous action against violators of traffic regulations.

"Other cases which are being handled would do well to know," said Clerk of the Court Rowland J. Sheridan today.

JANESVILLE FAIR BOOSTERS MAKING RUN THIS EVENING

Military Band and Lakota Quartet accompany Fair Boosters to Avalon Tonight.

At quarter of eight this evening the boosters for the Big Janesville Fair will leave for Avalon where the first of a series of band concerts will be staged. W. N. More and Dr. Wayne have charge of the run this evening and the boosters will be accompanied by the military band and Lakota quartet. The boosters will be well come to get in line this evening and the residents at Avalon are preparing warm reception.

The Janesville Military band and the Lakota club quartet have been secured to give a musical program consisting of popular and classical selections. W. N. More and Dr. Wayne Munn are to be the chief speakers for the evening. They will talk on the different departments of the fair and explain the details of each day's program. The people of Avalon are displaying a great deal of interest in the local fair and it is expected that many from that district of the county will be in Janesville during the fair and home coming week.

MORE WOE AT HOME FOR ROCKFORD MAN AFTER FIGHT HERE

Shoudy, Real Estate Broker, Served With Summons in $10,000 Land Swindle Suit of Clothier.

Matters broke bad all along the line this week for Israel Shoudy, the Rockford real estate man who, with his partner, P. L. Meyville, participated in a row here Wednesday morning with R. L. Stahlacker, the ultimate result of which was the arrest of Stahlacker on charges of threat to shoot with intent to extort money.

Wednesday he faced the irate customer who charged him with trumpling him in a real estate deal.

Returning to Rockford after a desperate struggle over a revolver, both Shoudy and Stahlacker alleging that the pistol was held in the hands of the other, he met up with a deputy sheriff who served a summons on him in a $10,000 trespass suit started for the October term of the Winnebago county court yesterday afternoon by C. F. Henry, a well known Rockford clothing store owner.

Henry alleges that there was fraud in connection with the sale of the land, Wisconsin farm property. Henry further says that Shoudy failed to deliver a clear title to the acreage purchased by the clothing man. The deputy found Shoudy's door locked in the Forest City, but he was watchful waiting was rewarded by a sight of the party sought and the paper was served.

CONDUCTS HEARINGS IN ACCIDENT CASES

Chief Examiner for Industrial Commission Gets Facts on Rock County Claims.

L. A. Farrell, chief examiner for the Wisconsin industrial commission, conducted hearings at the circuit court chambers today to ascertain the facts relative to several casualty claims against Rock county firms.

Information was given concerning the death benefit of Mrs. Alice Sherman of this city for the death of her husband, R. R. Sherman, who was injured February 28, 1915, while employed as a teamster by F. H. Green and Son, and who died as a result of the injuries on March 4, 1915.

Nick Pappas of Beloit sought compensation for an accident at the Beloit Iron Works, in which he claims he was injured as a result of straining to lift heavy castings. He asks for compensation to cover doctors' bills and hospital bills incurred during his operation. There was no appearance in the case of C. A. Bean against the Clinton Creamery company, which was scheduled for hearing today.

CONGENIAL TWENTY CLUB ENTERTAINED AT PICNIC

The members of the Congenial Twenty club and their husbands, were entertained at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Craig on Thursday evening. The party went out at five o'clock by automobile. A very delightful supper was served at two long tables in the dining room at seven o'clock and at a late hour the guests returned to the city. The affair was a great success and much enjoyed.

OBITUARY.

Albert Katzmark.

Funeral rites over the body of the late Albert Katzmark were held this morning at nine o'clock from the St. Mary's church. Rev. Father Goebel had charge of the services, and delivered the funeral sermon. Interment was made in Oak Hill cemetery.

The pallbearers were: Theodore H. H. Herman, Charles Triflet, John Odenberg and William Richter. Those who attended from out of town were, Mrs. Bails and Max Falk of Chicago.

Mohammed's Warning.

"Beware," said Mohammed to his followers, "of marrying a toadstool woman, a woman that sits and sits, and spends all thy substance on jewels and perfumes and rich stuffs."

U. S. HEADQUARTERS AT COLUMBUS IS MUD SHACK

Columbus, N. M., July 28.—Possibly the most insignificant structure in Columbus, N. M., is used as United States headquarters and the office of Major C. S. Farnsworth, commandant of the base. It is a V-shaped building of mud or adobe with a canvas roof. The floor is made of mud and is the only thing to distinguish it as headquarters.

The ceilings are low and the few windows badly chinked with mud. When the wind blows, the mud turns up his collar and puffs on his goggles. On the earthen boards have been laid for floors. The adobe unadorned forms the walls of the office.

A sheet iron stove is set in a box of sand. The walls are covered with wall maps of Mexico and Chihuahua, showing the truck routes and water holes.

In the outer office alert orderlies wait for orders to rush messages to the wireless station or telegraph office.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mrs. Charles Stoller recently left for her home in South Dakota after spending a few weeks at the home of her sister, Mrs. E. B. Connors of this city.

Members of the Congenial Twenty club were pleasantly entertained yesterday afternoon at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Connors at Lake Geneva at the Craig farm.

F. Baines and daughter, Margaret, and Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Craig motored to the Dells today for a few days outing.

Fred Palmer motored to Chicago on Thursday.

Mrs. Anna Bernard of 211 West Milwaukee street has returned from a week's visit at Lake Geneva at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Blyle.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Dawes, 125 North Washington street, and Mr. and Mrs. William Gilbert of Beloit left today for the northern part of the state, where they will spend the next few days.

Kenneth Price, Earl Dodge and Vincent Paul Connolly called on Miss Josephine Corbett last evening on their way back to Chicago, after a three weeks' auto trip spent at different lakes and at Elkhorn. Mr. Connolly is Miss Corbett's nephew.

Miss Helen Gilkey's nephew, George King, has returned to her home in Minneapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hatch of Jefferson avenue are spending the day at Lake Koshkonong, at Hoard's Hotel.

Mrs. E. Perry and daughter Flossie of Albany have returned after a Janesville visit.

Mr. and Mrs. George Warren of Pearl street went to Stoughton today, where they will be the week end guests of relatives.

Miss Margaret Sanger of Chicago, who has been spending a few weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Frick, returned to Chicago last evening.

Albert Schaller transacted business in Edgerton yesterday.

E. E. Spaulding of Harrison street was a business caller in Reedsburg, Wis., on Thursday.

Miss Margaret Sherman of Chicago who has been the guest of Mrs. Gertrude of 304 Main street, returned home on Thursday morning.

William McNeil of the Grand Hotel will leave today for Red Cedar Lake, where he will spend a few days with his family, who are spending the summer there.

Mrs. Valentine Webber, Valentine and Louis Webber and Mrs. Paul Colman, of Lake Ripley on Thursday, and spent the day at the Klise cottage.

Judge and Mrs. Charles Fifield of Jackson street, expect to leave on Sunday for an eastern trip by automobile. They will take with them a camping outfit and expect to camp out when the weather is favorable. Their plans are to go as far east as Vermont, and they intend to be gone about a month.

Miss Hannah Hanson of Chicago, who has been spending a few weeks in Janesville and at Lauderdale Lake, returned to that city on Thursday.

Miss Gertrude Kelle of Chicago, who has been spending her two weeks' vacation with her mother, Mrs. Kelle, of 32 South Main street, will return to Chicago on Saturday.

Mrs. David Holm of East street and family spent Thursday at Lauderdale Lake.

Mrs. Harriet Parsons of Cleveland and Miss Elizabeth Schickler and Miss Meta Kille motored to Edgerton for the day on Thursday.

The Misses Evelyn Dickson, Marion Hayes, Helen Hart and Miss Kroetz returned from an outing of two weeks at Lake Koshkonong.

Twelve guests were entertained at a dinner last evening at the Country club in honor of the birthday of one of the party, Miss Carrie of St. Lawrence avenue, the hostess.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—What Possessed Father to Look for a Man in a Summer Resort?

BY F. LEIPZIGER

SUDDEN DEATH

Before an Insurance Company will take a risk on your life the examining physician will test your water and report whether you are a good risk. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog, you suffer from backache, sick-headache, dizzy spells, or twinges and pains of lumbago, rheumatism and gout, or sleep is disturbed two or three times a night—take heed, before too late!

You can readily overcome such conditions and prolong life by taking the advice of a famous physician, which is: "Keep the kidneys in good order, avoid too much meat, salt, alcohol or tea. Drink plenty of pure water and drive the uric acid out of the system by taking 'Anuric,' in tablet form." "You can obtain 'Anuric' at almost all drug stores. It was the discovery of Dr. Pierce of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. If you cannot obtain it at your drug store send him 10 cents for trial package 'Anuric,' or $1.00 for full treatment.

Efficient Man's Business.

The community has no bribe that will tempt a wise man. You may raise money enough to tunnel a mountain, but you cannot raise money enough to hire a man who is minding his own business. An efficient and valuable man does what he can, whether the community pays him for it or not. The inefficient offer their inefficiency to the highest bidder, and are forever expecting to be put into office. One would suppose they were rarely disappointed.—Thoreau.

Resinol Soap

a friend to tender skins

Many ill-made toilet soaps contain free alkali, a harsh chemical which tends to dry and injure the skin or hair. Resinol Soap contains absolutely no free alkali, and it is added the soothing, healing Resinol medication, which doctors have used for over 20 years in treating skin troubles. Thus it comforts tender skins, helps nature clear the complexion and keep the hair rich, lustrous and free from dandruff. Sold at all druggists' and toilet counters.

HOW TO REDUCE YOUR WEIGHT

A SIMPLE, SAFE, RELIABLE WAY.

People who are over-burdened with superfluous fat, know only too well the discomfort and ridicule that over-stout people have to bear.

If you are carrying around five or ten pounds of unhealthy fat you are unnecessarily weakening your vital organs and are carrying a burden which destroys the beauty of your figure.

There is no need of anyone suffering from superfluous fat. If you want to reduce your weight in a simple, safe and reliable way, without starvation diet or tiresome exercise, here is a test worth trying. Spend as much time as you can in the open air, breathe deeply and get from Smith Drug Co. or any good druggist a box of oil of korein capsules; take one after each meal and before retiring at night.

Weight yourself once a week so as to know just how fast you are losing weight and don't leave off the treatment or even skip a single dose until you are down to normal.

Oil of korein is absolutely harmless, is pleasant to take and helps digestion. Even a few days treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight, footstools become lighter, your work seems easier and a lighter and more buoyant feeling takes possession of your whole being.

Every person who suffers from superfluous fat should give this treatment a trial.

The Thirty-nine Steps

By JOHN BUCHAN
Author of "Prester John"

Copyright by Frank A. Munsey Company

"Where are ye that comes stravaighn here on the Sabbath mornin'?" he asked.

I had lost all count of the days. So the Sabbath was the reason for his strange decorum.

My head was swimming so wildly that I could not frame a coherent answer. But he recognized me and he saw that I was ill.

"Ye'll have come for your jacket and waistcoat," he said. "Come in, bye. Losh, man, ye're terrible dune!" He held up his hand to get me to a chair.

I perceived I was in for a bout of malaria.

I had a good deal of fever in my bones, and the wet night had brought it out, while my shoulder and the effects of the fumes combined to make me feel pretty bad. Before I knew Mr. Turnbull was helping me off with my clothes and putting me to bed in one of the two cupboards that lined the kitchen walls.

He was a true friend in need, that old roadman.

His wife was dead years ago, and since his daughter's marriage he lived alone. For the better part of ten days he did all the rough nursing I needed. I simply wanted to be left in peace while the fever took its course, and when my skin was cool again I found that the bout had more or less cured my shoulder. But it was a badish job, and, though I was out of bed in five days, it took me some time to get my legs again.

He went out in the morning, leaving me milk for the day and locking the door behind him, and came in in the evening to sit silent in the chimney corner. Not a soul came near the place. When I was getting better he never bothered me with a question.

Several times he fetched me a two days' old Scotsman, and I noticed that the interest in the Portland place murder seemed to have died down. There was no mention of it, and I could find very little about anything except a thing called the general assembly—some ecclesiastical spree, I gathered.

"There's a terrible heap o' siller there," he said.

One day he produced my belt from a lock fast drawer. "There's a terrible heap o' siller there," he said. "Ye'd better count it to see it's a' there."

He never even inquired my name. I asked him if anybody had been around making inquiries subsequent to my spell at the roadmaking.

"Aye, there was a man in a motor-car. He speered where had taken my place that day, and I let on I thought him daff. But he kept on at me, and syne I said he maul be thinkin' o' my gudebrither frae the Clench that whiles lent me a haun'. He was a wersh lookin' soul, and I couldna understand the half o' what he was sayin'."

I was getting pretty restless those last days, and as soon as I felt myself fit I decided to be off.

That was not till the 12th day of June, and as luck would have it a drover went past that morning taking some cattle to Moffat. He was a man named Hislop, a friend of Turnbull's, and he came into his breakfast with us and offered to take me with him.

I made Turnbull accept £5 for my lodging, and a hard job I had of it. There never was a more independent being. He grew positively rude when I pressed him and shy and red and took the money at last without a thank you.

When I told him how much I owed him he grunted something about "ane guld turn deservin' anther." You would have thought from our leave-taking that we had parted in disgust.

Hislop was a cheery soul, who chattered all the way over the pass and down the sunny vale of Annan. I talked of Galloway markets and sheep prices, and he made up his mind I was a "pack shepherd" from those parts, whatever that may be. My plaid and my old hat, as I have said, gave me a fine theatrical Scots look.

But driving cattle is a mortally slow job, and we took the better part of the day to cover a dozen miles. If I had not had such an anxious heart I would have enjoyed that time. It was shining, blue weather, with a constantly changing prospect of brown hills and far, green meadows and a continual sound of larks and curlews and falling streams.

But I had no mind for the summer and little for Hislop's conversation, for as the fateful 15th of June grew near I was overweighed with the hopeless difficulties of my enterprise.

I got some dinner in a humble Moffat public house and walked the two miles to the junction on the main line. The night express for the south was not due till near midnight, and to dil up the time I went up on the hillside and fell asleep, for the walk had tired me.

I all but slept too long and had to run to the station and caught the train with two minutes to spare. The feel of the hard third class cushions and the smell of stale tobacco cheered me up wonderfully. At any rate, I felt now that I was getting to grips with my job.

I was decanted at Crewe in the small hours and had to wait till 6 to get a train for Birmingham.

In the afternoon I got to Reading and changed into a local train which journeyed into the depths of Berkshire. Presently I was in a land of lush water meadows and slow, reedy streams. About 8 o'clock in the evening a weary and travel stained being—a cross between a farm laborer and a vet—with a checked black and white plaid over his arm (for I did not dare to wear it south of the border), descended at the little station of Arinswell.

There were several people on the platform, and I thought I had better wait to ask my way till I was clear of the place.

CHAPTER XI.

At Sir Walter's Home.

THE road led through a wood of great beeches and then into a shallow valley, with the green backs of downs peeping over the distant trees. After Scotland, the air smelled heavy and fat, but infinitely sweet, for the lilacs and chestnuts and lilac bushes were domes of blossom.

Presently I came to a bridge, below which a clear, slow stream flowed between snowy beds of water buttercups.

A little above it was a mill, and the lasher made a pleasant, cool sound in the scented dusk. Somehow the place soothed me and put me at my ease. I felt to whistling as I looked into the green depths, and the tupe which came to my lips was "Annie Laurie."

A fisherman came up from the water-side, and as he neared he, too, began to whistle. The tune was infectious, for he followed my suit. He was a huge man in untidy old flannels and a wide brimmed hat, with a canvas bag slung on his shoulder.

He nodded to me, and I thought I had never seen a shrewder or better tempered face. He leaned his delicate ten foot split cane rod against the bridge and looked with me at the water.

"Clear, isn't it?" he said pleasantly. "I back our Kennet any day against the Test. Look at that big fellow! Four pounds, it he's an ounce! But the evening rise is over and you can't tempt 'em."

"I don't see him," said I.

"Look! There! A yard from the reeds, just above that stickle."

"I've got him now. You might swear he was a black stone."

"So," he said, and whistled another bar of "Annie Laurie."

"Twisden's the name, isn't it?" he said over his shoulder, his eyes still fixed on the stream.

"No," I said. "I mean to say yes." I had forgotten all about my alias.

"It's a wise conspirator that knows his own name," he observed, grinning broadly at a moor hen that emerged from the bridge's shadow.

I stood up and looked at him, at his square, cleft jaw and broad lined brow and the firm folds of cheeks and began to think that here at last was an ally worth having. His whimsical blue eyes seemed to go very deep.

Suddenly he frowned. "I call it disgraceful," he said, raising his voice. "Disgraceful that an able-bodied man like you should dare to beg. You can get a meal from my kitchen, but you'll get no money from me."

A dogcart was passing, driven by a young man, who raised his whip to salute the fisherman. When he had gone he picked up his rod.

"That's my house," he said, pointing to a white gate a hundred yards on. "Wait five minutes and then go round to the back door." And with that he left me.

I did as I was bidden. I found a pretty cottage with a lawn running down to the stream and a perfect jungle of guelder rose and lilac flanking the path. The back door stood open, and a grave butler was awaiting me.

"Come this way, sir," he said, and he led me along a passage and up a back staircase to a pleasant bedroom looking toward the river.

There I found a complete outfit laid out for me—dress clothes with all the fixings, a brown flannel suit, shirts, collars, ties, shaving things and hair-brushes, even a pair of patent shoes.

"Sir Walter thought as how Mr. Reggie's things would fit you, sir," said the butler. "He keeps some clothes 'ere, for he comes regular on the week ends. There's a bathroom next door, and I've prepared a 'ot bath. Dinner in 'alf an hour, sir. You'll 'ear the gong."

The grave being withdrew, and I sat down in a chintz covered easy chair and gaped.

It was like a pantomime to come suddenly out of beggary into this orderly comfort. Obviously Sir Walter believed in me, though why he did I could not guess. I looked at myself in the mirror and saw a wild, haggard brown fellow with a fortnight's ragged beard and dust in ears and eyes, collarless, vulgarly shirted, with old tweed clothes and boots that evidently had not been cleaned for the better part of a month.

I made a fine tramp and a fair drover, and here I was ushered by a prim butler into this temple of gracious ease. And the best of it was that they did not even know my name.

I resolved not to puzzle my head, but to take the gifts the gods had provided. I shaved and bathed luxuriously and got into the dress clothes and clean, crackling shirt, which fitted me not so badly. By the time I had finished the looking glass showed a not unpersonable young man.

Sir Walter awaited me in a dusky dining room, where a little, round table was lit with silver candles. The sight of him—so respectable and established and secure, the embodiment of law and government and all the conventions—took me aback and made me feel an interloper. He couldn't know the truth about me or he wouldn't treat me like this.

I simply could not accept his hospitality on false pretenses.

"I'm more obliged to you than I can say, but I'm bound to make things clear," I said. "I'm an innocent man, but I'm wanted by the police. I've got to tell you this, and I won't be surprised if you kick me out."

He smiled. "That's all right. Don't let that interfere with your appetite. We can talk about these things after dinner."

I never ate a meal with greater relish, for I had had nothing all day but railway sandwiches. Sir Walter did me proud, for we drank a good champagne and had some uncommon fine port afterward.

It made me almost hysterical to be sitting there, waited on by a footman and a sleek butler, and remember that I had been living for three weeks like a brigand, with every man's hand against me. I told Sir Walter about tiger fish in the Zambesi that bite off your fingers if you give them a chance, and we discussed sport up and down the globe, for he had hunted a bit in his day.

We went to his study for coffee, a jolly room full of books and trophies and untidiness and comfort.

I made up my mind that if ever I got clear of this business and had a house of my own I would create just such a room. Then when the coffee cups were cleared away and we had got our cigars alight my host swung his long legs over the side of his chair and bade me get started with my yarn.

"I've obeyed Harry's instructions," he said, "and the bribe he offered me was that you would tell me something to wake me up. I'm ready, Mr. Han-

I noticed that he called me by my proper name.

I began at the very beginning. I told of my boredom in London and the night I had come back to find Scudder gibbering on my doorstep. I told him all Scudder had told me about Karolides and the foreign office conference, and that made him purse his lips and grin. Then I got to the murder, and he grew solemn again. He heard all about the mifkman and my time in Galloway and my deciphering Scudder's notes at the inn.

FRECKLE-FACE

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from any druggist—and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine as this is the prescription sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

How to Judge a Woman by Her Hair

There is always the well-known and semi-humorous method, such as saying brunettes are quick-tempered or blondes are keener in their mental activity. But there is real common sense in just noticing whether the hair is well kept to judge a woman's neatness, or in looking at her style of arranging her hair, to decide whether or not she has good taste. If you are one of the few who try to make the most of your hair, remember that it is not advisable to wash the hair with any cleanser made for all purposes, but always use some good preparation made expressly for shampooing. You can enjoy the very best by getting some camthor from your druggist and dissolving a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water when your shampoo is all ready. After its use the hair dries rapidly with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its lustre and softness will also delight you, which the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.

State Wide Publicity Is Assured Quickly and Economically Through

THE WISCONSIN DAILY LEAGUE

General advertisers have found it profitable to use the WISCONSIN DAILY LEAGUE papers for their publicity and have been placed instantly in touch with

800,000 OF THE BEST POPULATION IN THE STATE

Every worthwhile family living in the trading radius of each of the 26 cities of the League is a reader of the favorite home Daily League newspaper—they are the actual buyers of everything sold—your article as well. Every manufacturer, every person with anything to dispose of to the general public in Wisconsin, whose eye falls on this should ponder deeply. They should also think seriously of the fact that the hundreds of dealers in the localities covered by each of these papers are advertising patrons of these papers in order to reach all the worth while people, their customers and your customers.

The dealers are more interested in having publicity in their home daily newspaper about your article than in any other medium. Wise advertisers with their ear to the ground realize this fact and make their plans accordingly.

Your order, copy and payment are made and completed through the Secretary's Office, cutting down all trouble. These advertisers use the League:

Dinner Stories

A St. Louis boy, who has often seen the convict in his state, was visiting a relative in Chicago, who one day took him to the zoo. Among the creatures that particularly interested the youngster was a zebra. "Say, Uncle," exclaimed he, pointing to the queer beast, "look at the convict mule!"

"Children, said the Sunday school superintendent, 'this picture illustrates today's lesson: Lot was warned to take his wife and daughter and flee out of Sodom. Here is Lot and his daughters, with his wife just behind them; and there is Sodom in the background. Now, has any boy or girl a question before we take up the study of the lesson?' 'Well, Uncle?' 'Please, this,' replied the latest graduate from the infant class, 'where is the sea?'"

Katherine and Margaret found themselves seated next each other at a dinner party and immediately became confidential.

"Why, I told you not to tell her," whispered Margaret. "Oh, isn't she the mean thing!" gasped Katherine. "Why, I told her not to tell you!"

"Well," returned Margaret, "I told her I wouldn't tell you she told me—so don't tell her I did."

"If you don't mind, sir," said the new convict addressing the warden, "I should like to be put at my own table."

"That might be a good idea," said the warden. "What 'you trade'?"

"I'm an aviator," said the new arrival.

To Mend China.

Put the pieces together carefully, tie firmly and boil in sweet milk for half an hour. China mended in this way will last for years. When washing fine china, place two Turkish towels, one crossing the other, in the dishpan before filling it with hot water. Put only a dish or two in the pan at a time. China ware will not be likely to get nicked if this plan is followed.

OFFICIAL NOTICE.

Notice to lay lateral sewers or drains, water and gas services on Clarence street.

Published by authority of the mayor and council of the city of Janesville, Wisconsin.

Janesville, Wis., July 20, 1916.

To Whom It May Concern:

The council of the city of Janesville, on the 13th day of July, 1915, adopted a resolution requiring the laying of lateral sewers or drains, and water and gas service pipes from the main sewer, water and gas mains to the curb line on each side of that portion of Clarence street from Milwaukee avenue to Court street, Third ward, at the cost of the property fronting thereon and in accordance with the plans and specifications adopted therefor.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that said plans and specifications are on file in my office, showing the location and size and quality of material required for the construction of such lateral sewers or drains, and water and gas service pipes, and that the owners or occupants of the lots and parcels of land fronting or abutting upon that portion of said street ordered paved are respectively liable for the cost of the same, and that the owners or occupants of such lots or parcels of land shall refuse or neglect to do the same before the paving of such street in front of said property and within ten days after the publication of this notice, the Board of Public Works will proceed to have the same done and charge the same to the expense thereof to the lots, parts of lots or parcels of land fronting upon such work in the manner provided in and by section 256-223 of the Wisconsin statutes of 1915.

Somewhat Bitter.

Two men were once talking over their respective sons' careers at college, and one remarked, "Well, I sometimes feel like saying as did Aaron in the wilderness, 'Behold, I tumbled in the gold and there came out this calf!'"—Christian Register.

Easy.

"The word 'reviver' spells the same backward or forward." It was the frivolous man who spoke. "Can you think of another?" The serious man scowled up from his newspaper. "Tut-tut!" he cried contemptuously. "Toledo Blade."

CUBS PERMIT BOSTON TIE UP GAME IN 9TH

Erwins Have Braves Beaten When Two Errors Let in Single Run.—Game Called in Eleventh.

Cub errors at Boston yesterday tossed away a clinch victory, and after going two extra rounds the game was called off in a 2 to 2 tie. Helme Zim and Rolie Zeider were the offenders. Two were out in the last half of the ninth when the trouble commenced. The score was in Chicago's favor, 2 to 1. Connelly, a pinch hitter, who sometimes plays center field, was called in and delivered for Snodgrass. Helme Zim juggled the sphere long enough to permit him to reach first. He advanced to third on an out and another snafu, and when Neph took the club for Hughes and knocked a slow bouncer for the third out. Connelly, thinking the game was over, overran third and gave Zim a chance to retrieve himself. He forced him to the plate, where Zeider muffed the throw, allowing the score.

Two more innings failed to get anything for either team, and as the day was bad it was called in the eleventh.

HESTON, EX-GRIDIRON STAR, NOW WINS FAT MAN'S RACE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Detroit, July 28.—Scores of Detroiters who followed the fortunes of Michigan's great football teams of a decade ago, witnessed a thrilling sight here recently. A local business men's association had a picnic. The most interesting event of the athletic program was a fat man's race. There were several entries. At the crack of the pistol a curly haired giant took the lead and, tearing over the ground with great lunging strides, flashed across the finish line winner. Many spectators, graduates of the University of Michigan, recognized the sprinter, and cheered themselves hoarse. The man was Willie Heston, whom Coach Yost claims was the greatest player that ever stepped on a Western gridiron.

WOOD MAY GET IN SHAPE TO PITCH FOR RED SOX

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Boston, Mass., July 28.—The Boston Red Sox soon may have the services of its former mainstay, "Buster" Joe Wood. This speed marvel has been out of harness this season on account of a bad knee. Several days ago President Linnin of the Red Sox received a letter from Wood, in which he said he has been home at Park Glenn, Pa., resting and taking care of his arm. Wood said his arm was nearly in prime condition and when he reports, he will be ready to take his regular turn on the slab.

INDIANA HORSEMAN OWNS MOTHER OF DAN PATCH

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Lafayette, Ind., July 28.—Dan Messner of Oxford, Benton county, who was the breeder of Dan Patch, king of the pacers which died recently of the paces which owned the dam of the famous horse. Dan Patch, as a colt did not appear to be especially promising because of bad legs. For this reason he was four years old before being entered in his first race, which was run here. He started his career by losing the first heat, but by easily winning the following heats of the race. Only one other heat in his long career was lost by Dan Patch. Mr. Messner sold the horse for $20,000 to a Mr. Sturgiss when the animal was six years old. Later, Savage bought the horse for $60,000, it is reported. The place where Dan Patch was born is marked with a tablet.

Connie Mack's star college boy, Lawton Witt, looks to be out of it for some while with an injured finger that doesn't heal. Lawton can't have to adorn the bench a great deal in the future, but even there he may be able to soak up a whole lot that will help him.

HOMER IN NINTH DEFEATS SOX, 8-6

Oldring Connects With Mel Wolfgang's Curve and Cleans Bases—Scott in Too Long.

When the Sox had the Yanks all tied up in the sixth with the score 6 to 3, and two men out in the ninth but with three New York men on the sacks, a little old home run raised havoc yesterday and gave victory to the easterners 8 to 6. Rub Oldring, the ex-Mack outfielder was guilty of the slaughter although they would not call it that in New York. Oldring, says Jim Scott to the box and kept him there until the trouble started in the ninth. He was not there when Oldring won the game, Mel Wolfgang, having been called in relief. He came up with the sacks loaded, fanned the first man, passed the second and forced a run, which to all appearances was a homer. Oldring's swat put the ball far over "Scout" Joe Jackson's head and the four Yanks romped home before it could be recovered.

IF YOU LIKE TO PLAY GOLF GO TO ILLINOIS AND GO CRAZY

Elgin, Ill., July 28.—Like to play golf? Here's how: Come to Illinois and go crazy.

Superintendent H. J. Gahagan of the state hospital for the mentally defective, urges golf for the insane. "A lot of golf has been played here, not only physically but mentally," Superintendent Gahagan said today. "The game is a popular amusement here. Due to the absence of intense excitement it is helpful to those with mental disorder. It gives them the exercise essential, yet they do not feel that it is part of their duty or treatment."

Sport Snap Shots

MORRIS MILLER

Joe Judge, the Washington first sacker who looked so brilliant last fall, has had a rupture and has been advised by doctors never to play ball again. Judge, however, didn't hit the stride this spring. That his performance last fall promised, when he looked sure to become one of the star first basemen of many days. His injury is being filed at present by Alva Williams, catcher, and he is doing a bit new at the thing, Alva is doing mighty good work.

If Leo Fohl makes a pitcher out of Grover Loudermilk—which it seems he is going to do—he may be proud of the performance. Loudermilk has always been wild beyond all taming. But Fohl seems to know how to make Grover put him over. In his recent game against the Yanks he showed the proper head in the tight places and won nicely, giving only seven runs, which is wonderful control for Loudermilk. It's pretty safe to wager that Grover will win more games for Fohl than he loses through the rest of the season.

Somewhat or other the average fan is unwilling to give Hal Levinsky the credit that is due. There is no reasonable doubt that he had it on Jack Dillon all through their recent fight, and yet he gets applause for beating a man who shortly before had been rated sky high. There's no doubt that Jack Dillon is a wonder, but Levinsky is a rather ordinary dub like Moran does not prove it. It would be hard to say that either league in point of dope had the least shade on the other.

Fred Williams of the Cubs is the home-run king of the season so far, with ten to his credit, and J. Franklin Baker comes next with eight.

If there is to be an argument about the comparative class of the National and American leagues, it can be settled pretty well by considering the dope on the club fields, batting and so on. The last compilation of dope showed the National league a few points ahead of the American league in club batting and both leagues even in club fielding. The leagues are also only a few points apart in distance hits by clubs and the average of the ten leading sluggers match up pretty well. It would be hard to say that either league in point of dope had the least shade on the other.

Bill Donovan says that courage is the big stuff with ball players. "If they have the nerve to keep plugging when the jinx is on them then they're sure to come through." And Bill goes on to say that that's what he likes about his Yanks. The jinx can swat and maul them as it has till it's weary, but the boys keep cheerful just ed up the most discouraging line of bum luck most any team ever had and their pennant hopes begin to pale. But with Donovan there to keep them fighting they aren't gutting just yet.

Charley Comiskey, the White Sox owner, hates your grand stand players. Whenever he sees a player inclined to pull any sort of fancy stuff he reproves him in a firm way. When Frank Isbell was in his prime Comiskey was annoyed to see that Frank was stopping lots of fast ones with a nut and being too nifty for any use. "If I want a glove to play first," says Comiskey, "I'll go down town and buy me a glove, Frank."

NATIONAL SNEEZERS READY FOR MEETING

Annual Convention to Be Held in White Mountains August 31.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Bethlehem, N. H., July 28.—Nobody nose how many members of the National Hay Fever association will attend the annual convention in the White Mountains Aug. 31. But there are 200,000 sneezers, sneezers and sneezers enrolled and a good many thousand of them will be here, from all over the country.

According to the report of President John R. Pluover, these sneezers sneeze some seventy-three sneezes a day, for an average of forty-one sneezy days a year. This gives us 6 billion, 3 million, 200 thousand sneezes to look forward to this year. Most of these young explosions will be as usual wait until they catch their votins in the middle of the preacher's prayer or some place like that before demanding expression.

In volume of noise these sneezes will be equal to seventeen European wars and a municipal trolley system. They will necessitate the use of six handkerchiefs per day per sneezer, a total of 1,350,000 fabrics a day for the 200,000, or 50,400,000 hankies to regild the hay fever vote of ayes and noes for the season.

Present and sneezing at the convention will be Henry Altman of East 87th street, New York, the noblest sneezer of them all. Altman has tried 100 remedies, including psychology, Yogiism, astrology, osteopathy, bleeding, hypnotism, auto-suggestion and automobiling, singing, science and scores of others.

A number of rose feverites will be among the hayes, the hayes last year deciding by a straw vote to welcome them.

The case of the Texas member who sued his insurance company for double indemnity because he suffered complete disability for two weeks as the result of being hit by a sneeze term while riding on a train, will be discussed.

NEW YORK STREET RAILWAYS STILL FACE STRIKE ISSUE
